LEAD MAXIMIZER

Pentel's Lead Supply System

LEAD MAXIMIZER mechanism forwards reserved lead from storage chamber into chuck for continuous lead feed.

Reserved lead pushes existing lead forward for less back-slippage and the slider holds existing lead tightly, allowing maximum usage of existing lead before discarding the lead and advancing new lead into the sleeve.

Requires minimal effort to push new lead that has already advanced into the chuck for comfortable usage.

How to use

1. Click only once to advance the sleeve. No need to click repeatedly. The protective sleeve will write without you actually seeing the lead. At this time, a small amount of lead will come out of the pipe, but please write as it is.

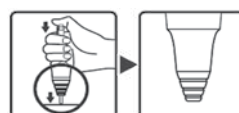

3. When the remaining lead becomes too short to write, the sleeve will suddenly retract. To avoid a lead jam, click several times until the short piece of lead is removed.

2. Every time you lift the sleeve from the paper surface, the lead protected by the sleeve advances forward to its original position. This function enables you to write continuously without re-clicking, until the lead is nearly finished.

4. After using, always retract the sleeve by clicking the push button and then press against a flat surface so that the sleeve is safely stored in the barrel.

Quality Comparison of Refill Lead

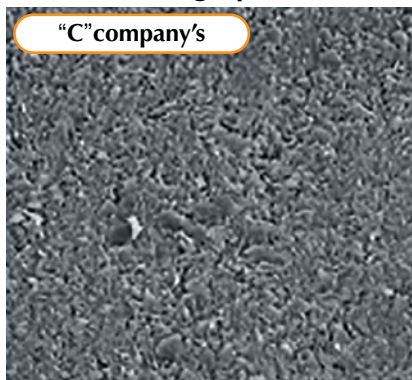

No.1 Selling Pentel's Refill Lead

"Hi-Polymer" Lead

Comparison of Cross Section Photographs

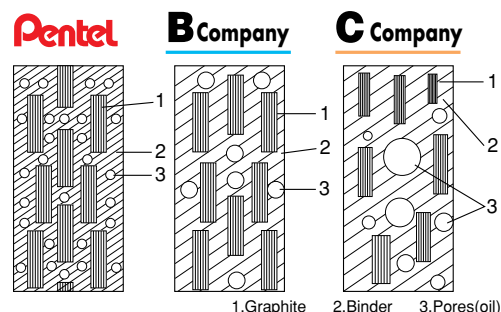

Black lead particles (board-shaped crystals) are laid down in an orderly pattern as they wear down for smooth, frictionless writing.

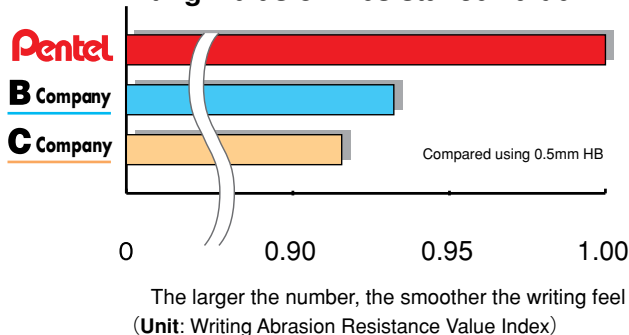

"C" company's product shows that the black lead particles stay upright as they are worn away, producing a scratchy, uncomfortable writing feel.

STRUCTURAL MODEL DIAGRAM OF THE REFILL LEAD

Pentel's "HI-POLYMER SUPER" Lead contains large amount of graphite. Employs high-strength sponge-like structure for the binder carbon and connects them tightly with graphite to create a strong, thick and smooth lead. Because of this even and well balanced structure, Pentel's "HI-POLYMER SUPER" lead became the best quality in the world.

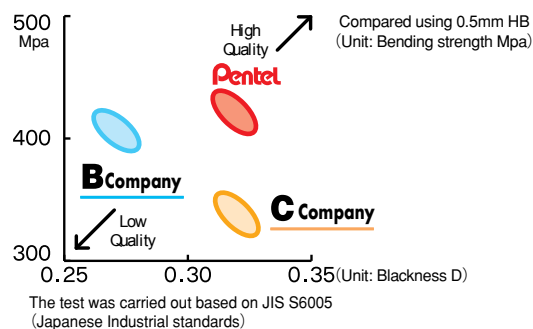

COMPARISON OF SMOOTHNESS: Writing Abrasion Resistance Value

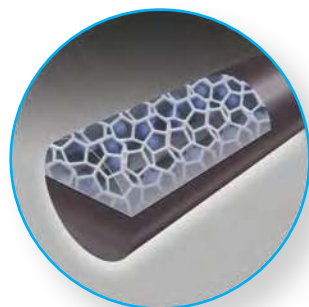

The Writing Abrasion Resistance Value Index is the reciprocal number to indicate the "Writing Abrasion Resistance Value (gf)" used to describe writing feel. The values shown are relative to the figure for "HI-POLYMER SUPER" lead 0.5mm HB which is 1.00. The larger the number, the smoother the writing feel. Smoothness usually decreases as lead becomes harder (B-HB-H). But the smoothness of Pentel's "HI-POLYMER SUPER" lead is not affected by the hardness of the lead. It provides a writing feel unmatched by the products of other companies.

BLACKNESS & STRENGTH COMPARISON

In pencil lead, density and strength are usually inversely related. The stronger it gets, the lower the density. The more the blackness, the weaker it gets. It is very difficult to manufacture high quality "BLACK but STRONG" lead. Pentel's "HI-POLYMER SUPER" lead employs a production method that successfully merges these two contradictory properties. Please experience this remarkable writing sensation!

Ain STEIN

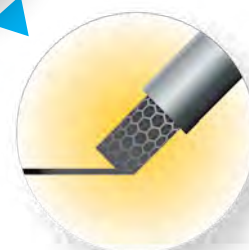

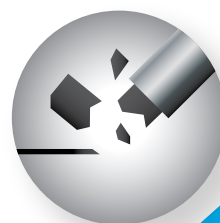

STRONG FORMULA

"STEIN" has an internal 'honeycomb' structure. This ceramic frame holds the leads firmly from the inside. And it makes the leads Super Strong.

"STEIN" leads have a strength of 130g (0.5mm HB)
Average Value
10% STRONGER than our existing refill lead

"STEIN" also provides a smooth writing feel.
Less debris on paper or your hand when you touch it.

Pentel Ain

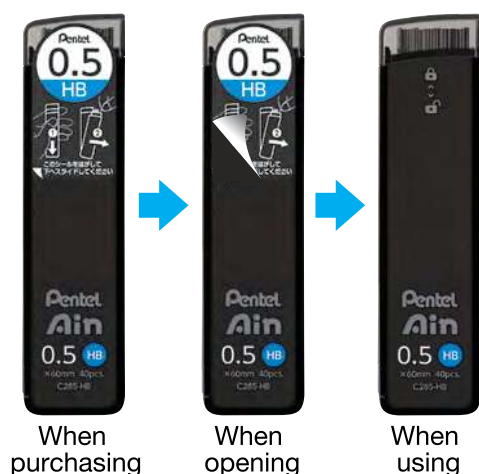

Pentel Ain Features

With a new manufacturing method, it is smoother.

The new manufacturing method, which uses a special oil as the raw material, allows the graphite and resin carbide to crumble smoothly during writing, resulting in a smooth writing feel.

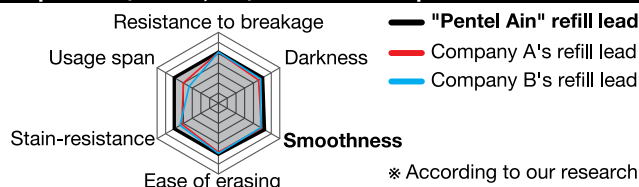

Simple case design

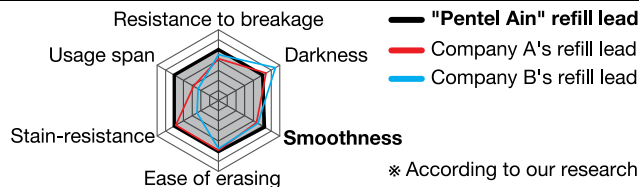

Design is based on the colour of the lead (black). It has an inconspicuous design when in use and goes well with pencil cases and desk areas.

Balanced high performance

Comparison (0.3mm, HB) Feature Comparison Radar Chart

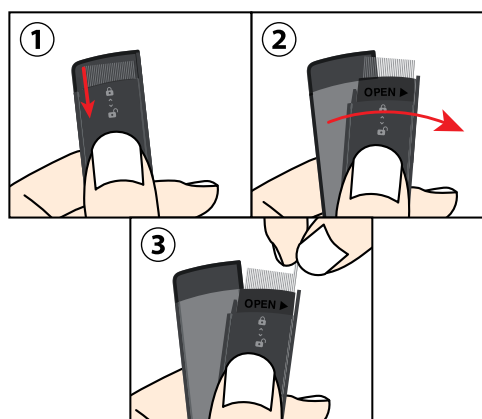

Comparison (0.5mm, HB) Feature Comparison Radar Chart

By fine-tuning each aspect of the lead formulation, we have struck a perfect balance between typically conflicting properties to achieve the most optimal result.

Case structure pursued for ease of use

A highly operable case structure that has been finalised through repeated surveys and behavioral observations. Because the case can be opened with one hand while it is facing up, the risk of spilling the leads is reduced.
